Dear Chris,

Following our conversations regarding the concern from both yourself and Lasso Co of Moscow regarding the proliferation of fake enamels in the Russian market, I would like to reassure you of the following points:

All enamels supplied by us to Lasso, via yourself, are manufactured in our UK factory and are of UK preferential origin.

Milton Bridge fully supports this distribution network, as it has since it's inception in 1994.

Milton Bridge offers its guarantee that all enamels procured through this network are supported by our quality control system. Each batch of enamel that is produced in our factory has a sample of retained stock that can be traced via our audit trail for quality control purposes, as both you and Sergei have witnessed during your visit to our factory.

We understand that there are many different enamel brands and supply networks and that traceability can be difficult. However, we would like to re-assure all customers of Lasso Co of Moscow that all Milton Bridge enamels supplied by Lasso are genuine and are backed by our guarantees as set above.

Best Regards,

David Bainbridge
Director
Milton Bridge Ceramic Colours Ltd.
